

Privacy Notice

Last updated: September 15, 2019

Adaviv shares the important stance that you and others care how your and their information is used and shared. We appreciate you working with us to improve agriculture through technology for a growing world. You can trust that we will only use your information towards this mission and for no purpose you have not agreed to or are aware of. We do not use any personal information, nor share it, we only use your user id to work with you on your annotation tasks or for the purposes of payment for work you may perform. If any public or social features become a part of the We'd application that would share any part of your profile or personal information (e.g., your name) we will notify you before such features are launched and will not share information unless you have agreed.

Please note that Adaviv, Inc. owns and operates this site or web application and associated products and services.

